The Twelve Minor Prophets

The book

Are you tired of Bible studies that lack substance? Have you been avoiding the more challenging books of the Bible? Bible Fiber presents a yearlong chapter-by-chapter study of the Twelve Minor Prophets. With comprehensive teaching and insights into the prophetic message, Bible Fiber will build up your knowledge about ancient Israel's history, culture, and worldview.

The prophets served as God's earthly megaphone, living on earth but keeping an ear in heaven. While critiquing their contemporaries, they delivered a hope-filled dispatch for the world to come. As war drums from Assyria and Babylon resounded, the prophets offered a plea for restoration with God—a timeless message that echoes today.

I pray that by accepting this Bible reading challenge, we will take on Micah's call to action: "Do justice, love kindness, and walk humbly with your God." We will adopt the anthem of Amos: "Seek me and live!" Ultimately, this study of prophetic oracles will grant us a sneak peek into God's redemptive plan fulfilled in the saving work of Jesus.

The author

Shelley Neese is president of The Jerusalem Connection, a non-profit organization whose mission is to educate and activate Christian support for Israel and the Jewish people. Shelley is the author of The Copper Scroll Project and host of the Bible Fiber podcast. She studied in Israel for three years, where she received her Master of Arts in Middle Eastern Studies from Ben Gurion University. Shelley is now pursuing a Master of Arts degree in Biblical History and Archaeology at The Bible Seminary.
